

Washington—Despite the Navy's official announcement that Amelia Earhart is lost, it will take a long time before her husband, George Putnam, gives up hope.

Putnam has an unshakable confidence in his wife's skill, and he has pointed out to intimate friends that if she reached one of the thousands of islands which dot the South Pacific or was picked up by a Japanese fishing boat, it would be weeks before she could communicate with the outside world. None of the fishing boats carry radio equipment, and to them a good catch of fish is more important than rescuing a mysterious stranger.

Whether Putnam's confidence is justified or not, those who have flown with Miss Earhart say that she is one of the toughest, most wiry and tireless women who ever lived, and if marooned would survive her navigator, Fred Noonan.

Miss Earhart never smoked or drank, and ate little. She had nerves like iron, and an uncanny sense of direction.

No. 1 Aviatix Floored
Eugene Vidal, ex-director of the Bureau of Air Commerce, and Bill Briggs of Eastern Airlines once flew with her to the Great Lakes exposition, where they had dinner in their hotel suite. Between courses, Vidal, former West Point football star, inaugurated a series of tricks, one of which consisted of lying down backward on the floor while balancing a tumbler of water on the forehead.

The others all got a showerbath when they tried it, but Miss Earhart lay back on the floor without spilling the tumbler. In the middle of her performance, the water, entering, looked a bit shocked at the sight of America's No. 1 aviatix stretched out on the floor with a glass of water on her forehead.

Another trick was turning a somersault over the back of a chair, which Miss Earhart again performed with greater dexterity than the others, though once again the waiter entered just as America's No. 1 aviatix was in a most undignified position.

Another trick was to toss pennies into a row of tumblers while blindfolded. Miss Earhart did this so well that Vidal and Briggs noiselessly moved the table (the glasses on it) farther away. But Miss Earhart, blindfolded, immediately sensed that the table had been moved, and successfully tossed the pennies at its new location.

Advance Preparations
Although a superb pilot, Miss Earhart's friends say she was not as careful in her advance preparations as Colonel Lindbergh.

For instance, neither she nor Noonan was competent to send radio messages. During the Pacific flight the Coast Guard vessel Itasca several times radioed her asking her to stop using voice and use the ship's radio code channel instead. However, she kept on using voice.

Naval radio experts credit almost none of the reports from amateur radio operators that they heard the Earhart plane. They say that with the plane's engines stopped, Miss Earhart could not send farther than 300 miles. The plane would have had to have reached an island, and got the engines running despite lack of fuel, in order to have had sufficient strength for any long-range radio transmission.

These amateur reports are always muddying up the searches for lost airplanes, according to naval radio experts, most of the amateurs being out for publicity.

Regarding recent criticism of the cost of the Earhart search, and the claim that she should not have been given an official permit to fly, it is a fact that officials of the Bureau of Air Commerce of the Commerce department were not anxious to give her a permit.

However, the law giving them the power to limit flights is so loosely drawn that almost anyone who insists on stunt flights, such as the Earhart venture, cannot be prevented from making them.

Cactus Jack Garner
When it comes to tonsorial attentions, Vice President Garner is most particular. He does not shave himself, and there is only one man in Washington who is allowed to scrape the tender skin of "Cactus Jack".

For 37 years James Neale, Negro barber in the House of Representatives, has laid his hands tenderly on that face and drawn a straight razor across it.

This is not a daily job for Neale, since, as he puts it, "the vice president's got a tender skin and a tough beard, and he can't stand to be shaved but once in two days. His beard grows pretty long in two days, but it's white and you don't notice it so much."

AMERICANS IN PEIPING SAFE IN CONSULATE

Chinese Capital Isolated From Outside World Today

BULLETIN
Peiping, (By U. S. Embassy Wireless to Shanghai) July 28.—(AP)—The majority of the 675 American civilians in Peiping took refuge in the United States embassy compound tonight at the close of the first day of major Chinese-Japanese hostilities in this area.

BULLETIN
Peiping, July 28.—(Delayed almost 20 hours)—The last remaining telegraph line from Peiping to Tientsin went dead at 6:45 A. M. today (4:45 P. M. Tuesday, C. S. T.). Peiping's only communication with the outside world was through limited radio facilities.

BULLETIN
Washington, July 28.—(AP)—Secretary Hull said today that possible evacuation of American civilians from Peiping was being considered as one eventually to be met in the present Sino-Japanese crisis.

He made the statement at his press conference shortly after it became known that President Roosevelt was keeping in constant touch with Far Eastern developments to determine, among other things, whether the neutrality act should be invoked.

Tientsin, China, July 29.—(Thursday)—(AP)—A Japanese air fleet roared over the country side about Peiping early this morning, dropping leaflets warning the Chinese populace to evacuate, after a full day of undeclared war in North China that extended from the former dragon capital to the sea.

Peiping, the airman reported on their return to Tientsin, "appeared a city of the dead."

"Not a single moving thing was visible," they added.

The evacuation warning scattered over the countryside about Peiping told the inhabitants that they might expect further onslaughts, designed to expel Chinese troops from the whole area, at daybreak.

U. S. Marine Wounded
Military headquarters of the Japanese North China army here said Wednesday, first day of large-scale hostilities, had been six strategic centers north, east and south of Peiping captured in the closing of the Japanese army's pincers.

An American marine was wounded slightly in Peiping, apparently by accident, in a burst of sporadic gunfire within the city walls. Outside Peiping, hostilities continued this morning at least one point—Hsikuang, 3 miles northwest of the city, where the main body of the 37th division of the 29th Chinese army was reported stationed.

Ships Turned Back
Chinese mortar fire, Wednesday forced four Japanese munitions ships to turn back from the mouth of the Hai Ho river after attempting to reach Tangku, port of this Japanese military headquarters in the undeclared war between China and Japan.

Westward, sanguinary fighting, with conflicting claims of success, made an all-day battlefront of the Peiping area.

At the Hai Ho mouth, Chinese troops opened fire from the banks as soon as the four Japanese steamers were in sight. After they had turned back into the gulf of Chihli, Japanese cutters appeared, returned the Chinese fire, and escorted a transport safely into Tangku.

Then the Japanese command warned all shipping to take shelter pending punitive activities on sea and land. Japanese troops moved up to drive the Chinese from Taku, on the opposite bank of the river from Tangku.

The two places are about 25 miles east of Tientsin.

Barracks Taken
The Japanese high command claimed complete occupation of the Chinese barracks at Nanyuan, a stronghold in the Peiping defenses south of the former capital. They asserted superior Japanese

Billy Fulton is Laid to Rest by Loved Ones Today

The funeral of Will Fulton, advertising manager of the Dixon Evening Telegraph, for 34 years an employee of this paper, was held this morning at the home of his brother, Robert, 324 North, Galena avenue, and the large attendance of representative Dixon business men and citizens attested the love in which he was held, while many beautiful flowers were tributes of his loved ones, closer friends and associates in business. The Telegraph force was present in a body.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Fr. B. Norman Burke, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, and his body was carried to its last resting place in Oakwood cemetery by Edward Valle, William Trein, Edward Melton, and George, Robert and Ben Shaw.

Among those from out of town who attended the rites were his nephews, Robert Fulton Jr. of Birmingham, Ala., and Cedric Fulton of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Swartz, Mrs. Earl E. Holdridge and Horace Diller of Sterling, and Mrs. Frank Weller of Oregon.

COURT CITATION FOR CONTEMPT DROPPED TODAY

Chicago, July 28.—(AP)—Federal Judge Evan A. Evans today dropped a contempt of court citation against E. C. Yellowley, district supervisor for the alcohol tax unit, and Levi J. Baker, senior inspector.

They were cited April 29 after a petition by United States Attorney Michael L. Igoe. The case involved a private conference Yellowley and Baker held with Sidney Eckstone, former of the April Federal grand jury which investigated administration of Yellowley's department.

Judge Evans announced discharge of the citation after a 40 minute conference in chambers with Igoe and Floyd E. Thompson, attorney for Baker and Yellowley, veteran of 31 years of government service.

Judge Evans said he was satisfied Yellowley "did not intend to willfully obstruct justice" and that there was "no wilful contempt of court but if anything over zeal." He urged full cooperation between Yellowley and Igoe.

In answering the citation June 9 Yellowley and Baker admitted their conversation with Eckstone in a hotel room had been "improper" but asserted they merely had attempted to be "helpful to the grand jury." They apologized to the court.

Budget Bureau To Advise Curtailing Of Expenditures

Washington, July 28.—(AP)—The budget bureau arranged today to back up President Roosevelt's request for federal economy with advice to individual departments on how to curtail spending.

The chief executive suggested recently that 10 per cent of all appropriations susceptible to reduction be impounded. He expressed hope that an estimated $418,000,000 deficit for this year could be eliminated.

When departments submit estimates of savings, officials said, the budget bureau will determine whether all feasible reductions have been made. If bureau experts think further cuts are possible, they will confer with departmental representatives.

At his press conference late yesterday, Mr. Roosevelt said departments are progressing satisfactorily with plans to whittle expenditures.

The president already has approved a delay in construction of a new war department building as one method of saving money this year.

Taught Police To Drive; Forbidden To Drive His Own

Omaha, Neb., July 28.—(AP)—In 1908 Floyd Flinn, 36, taught Omaha police to drive their first automobiles.

Now he is forbidden by law to drive. Twice within three days Flinn was charged with driving through red lights, and at the request of a niece, who said Flinn's eyesight and health are failing, a police court judge revoked his license.

Nationalization Of Medicine Is Lewis Proposal
Washington, July 28.—(AP)—Senator Lewis (D-Ill.) has asked Congress to nationalize the medical profession.

He introduced a resolution to make all physicians and surgeons civil officers of the United States. They would be required to give medical aid to any needy impoverished person. The social security board would pay the bill.

Lewis advanced the proposal at the recent annual convention of the American Medical Association. Some controversy followed over whether he spoke with White House authority.

Lewis' resolution would direct physicians or surgeons to treat, on request, any impoverished person in need of aid and provides for their hospitalization if considered necessary.

LEADERS FIGHT ADJOURNMENT OF 76th CONGRESS

Want Major Legislative Program All Completed

Washington, July 28.—(AP)—Democratic leaders, fighting increased demands for early adjournment of Congress, were endeavoring today to hold it in session long enough to enact the major parts of the administration program.

They received support from a group of first-year Democratic Senators, who told majority leader Barkley, at a dinner last night they opposed delaying important bills until next year.

Completion of a substitute court bill, however, added to the pressure from many members for a quick wind-up of the session at least by August 14.

In an effort to compromise the demands for further legislation on the one hand and for early adjournment on the other, Barkley threatened to lengthen the daily Senate sessions.

He hinted that if the wage and hour bill was not passed today, he would call the Senate into session at 11 A. M. tomorrow, instead of the customary noon. He already has been holding the sessions later in the afternoon than usual.

No Commitments
Administration efforts for the present were directed toward passing the court bill and the wage-hour legislation. Leaders were making no commitments on an adjournment date or on the extent of the clean-up program.

The new court bill reached the Senate after unanimous approval by the same judiciary committee which condemned the original Roosevelt bill.

Confined to non-controversial procedural changes in the lower courts, leaders expected it to go quickly through the Senate.

It would speed appeals in constitutional cases, permit the intervention of the attorney general in such cases, require three-judge courts for issuance of injunctions suspending for cause of Congress, and permit shifts of judges within judicial districts to relieve congestion.

Housing legislation still was regarded as a possibility by some Senators. Barring White House assistance, they were counting on dropping the controversial farm and government reorganization bills.

Some members of both Houses still were insisting, however, on consideration of the ever-normal granary bill before adjournment.

Woman Who Drowned Baby While Insane Acquitted by Judge

Chicago, July 28.—(AP)—Criminal Court Judge Rudolph Desort ruled Mrs. Sarah T. Ballancee, 32, innocent of murder in the drowning of her 13-months old son last year.

Upon her arrest after the killing on June 26, 1936, Mrs. Ballancee said she had intended to do away with the children and herself so that they would not be a "millstone" around her husband's neck.

Mrs. Ballancee was released several weeks ago from the Kankakee state hospital, where she was committed after a criminal court jury held her insane a year ago. She was adjudged cured and was brought to court today, according to the terms of the indictment.

Dr. Harry A. Hoffman of the Cook county behavior clinic testified she was insane at the time of the killing but now was sane.

Mrs. Ballancee waived jury trial and heard Judge Desort say:

"Under the laws of the state of Illinois there is only one ruling that I could make. I find the defendant not guilty."

Mrs. Ballancee said she would live for six weeks with her father, Charles Tittle, 63, of Rapid City, S. D., before joining her husband, Harold, and their three-year-old daughter, Nancy, in Buffalo, N. Y. Her father and husband were in court.

Stabilization Of Farm Prices Has Been Postponed

Washington, July 28.—(AP)—Chairman Jones (D-Tex.) of the House agriculture committee announced today that congressional action on farm price stabilization legislation had been postponed indefinitely until next session.

The announcement came after Jones had met with Speaker Bankhead, Majority Leader Rayburn and members of the committee.

Jones said the committee had decided to follow a course previously decided upon by the Senate agricultural committee—to study the legislation at meetings before the next session of Congress convenes in January.

It has been indicated at Springfield, according to word received here, that Governor Henry Horner will issue a call for special elections to be held in the fifteenth, sixteenth and seventeenth judicial districts of Illinois for the purpose of electing circuit judges to fill vacancies existing in these three districts as the result of the deaths of former judges. It is expected the governor will issue an official call some time this week. It is understood Nov. 3 will be the date for the elections.

Two judges in the fifteenth judicial district have passed away since the last regular judicial election. Judge Frank T. Sheehan, Democrat, Galena, died and former Circuit Judge William J. WAGE AND HOUR BOARD CREATION TO BE DISCUSSED

Coincides with F. D. R. Assertion Labor Board Unbiased

Washington, July 28.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's assertion that the national labor relations board is impartial, coincided today with Senate debate over creating an additional board to fix wage and hour standards.

Criticism of the labor board from both capital and labor, he said, is an indication it has been fair to everyone.

The president made known his views at a press conference a day after Rep. Rankin (D-Miss) had accused the board of conspiring with Communist influences to destroy southern industries.

Hugh Johnson, former NRA administrator, recently called the board a one-sided "pressure" group. Senator Nye (R-ND) said "the average man regards it as an adjunct" to John L. Lewis Committee for Industrial Organization.

From other persons, Roosevelt said, have come assertions the board was biased in favor of industry.

FARLEY BEHIND RE-ELECTION OF SENATOR DUFFY

Milwaukee, July 28.—(AP)—United States Senator F. Ryan Duffy, a Democrat of Fond du Lac, Wis., who voted to return President Roosevelt's court bill to committee, today had the support of Postmaster General James A. Farley for re-election.

The Democratic national chairman told Democrats at a banquet here last night "Ryan Duffy has been a loyal supporter of the administration. I speak for the Democrats of the country when I say I wish to see him returned to the Senate next year."

"And I want to say I am grateful," Farley continued, "and I know the president is grateful, for the fine support accorded him (the president) by Sen. Bob A. La Follette." La Follette re-elected as a Progressive in 1936, voted for the court bill.

In an interview after Farley had completed a last inspection trip of southern Wisconsin post-offices yesterday, the postmaster general was asked whether the president will support Duffy for re-election.

"I never presume to speak for the president at any time," he answered. "But I feel Duffy is entitled to re-election. Everybody interested in the success of the administration wants him re-elected."

River And Harbor Maintenance Fund Approved Today

Washington, July 28.—(AP)—The war department announced today that Secretary Woodring had approved $25,551,230 in annual maintenance allotments for several hundred rivers and harbors projects throughout the country.

The funds were provided in the annual war department non-military supply bill.

The allotments involve no new projects. They are upkeep of those already in operation.

Allotments included: Mississippi river between Missouri and Minneapolis, Minn., $1,649,000; Mississippi river, Ohio to Missouri rivers, $975,000; Illinois waterway, Illinois, $631,000.

Apparently Malone Will Lose Motion for Another Trial

Chicago, July 28.—(AP)—Federal Judge William H. Holly indicated today he will rule tomorrow on a motion for a new trial for William H. Malone, former chairman of the Illinois Tax Commission, who was convicted June 7 on charges of evading income tax payments.

When counsel for Malone completed a three day argument on the motion, Judge Holly interrupted Assistant District Attorney Austin Hall, who began to speak, and said:

"In order to limit argument I wish to state that in the opinion of the court the evidence in the trial was sufficient to justify the verdict."

Malone's attorneys contended the jurors were prejudiced by reading newspaper articles during the trial quoting letters from the president about rich tax dodgers.

Malone faces a possible maximum sentence of 10 years in federal prison and a $20,000 fine.

TRUCK DRIVER'S NAP RESULTED IN AN ACCIDENT

Mt. Morris People in Hospital as Result of Crash Last Evening

Harley Babel, Sterling truck driver, enroute from Rockford to Sterling, fell asleep last night about 10:30 about a mile north of Grand Detour and his vehicle crashed head on into a car from Mt. Morris, which contained several women and children who had attended the theatre in Dixon. The Mt. Morris car was proceeding north on the route 2 highway when the truck suddenly swerved across their lane of travel and headed directly into it.

Occupants of the Mt. Morris car were Mrs. Mae Ford, 41; Mrs. Neva Trout, 26; Mrs. Vivian Richardson, 25; Charles Ford, 3 years; Robert Trout, aged 3 years. Charles Ford was the worst injured and was in a serious condition today at the Katherine Shaw Be-thea hospital suffering from a compound fracture of the jaw and internal injuries. All of the occupants of the car were taken to the Dixon hospital as soon as they could be extricated from the wreckage and placed in bassinets cars. State police officers Edward Mahan of Dixon and Canode of Oregon were summoned to the scene of the accident and directed the removal of the injured women and children.

Babel was reported to have told the officers that he fell asleep and was awakened by the crash. He was uninjured.

Mrs. Trout sustained a fractured leg and was otherwise cut and bruised. Her three-year-old son Robert was bruised about the head and sustained cuts about the face. All of the occupants were cut and bruised and were treated at the local hospital. The car and truck which were considerably damaged, were hauled from the scene.

Car Hit Cattle

Vern Edmondson and Owen J. Sullivan of Chicago, driving south of Dixon on state route 89, sustained minor bruises this morning about 3 o'clock, when their car collided with a herd of cattle belonging to U. Fells, South Dixon dairyman. The cattle had broken out of a pasture field and wandered out on the paving. State officer Mahan was called to the scene and the car which was damaged was removed to a local garage. Some of the cattle were injured.

Machine Overturned

At a late hour last night a car in which Edward Mealy and George Long of this city were riding, turned over on the railroad crossing just west of the Northwestern passenger station. The occupants escaped uninjured and the car was only slightly damaged.

Either Nelson Or Lie Detector Is Fabricating Tale

Chicago, July 28.—(AP)—Either there's a $135,000 worth of Liberty bonds in a hole near Ruby, Ariz., or Joseph Nelson, 29, is the author of a story Northwestern University's lie detector fumbled on.

Police detained Nelson today pending an investigation to see who was right.

When picked up while wandering along a street last Friday, Nelson told a policeman the bonds were hidden under a tree by a gold mine shaft and that he had come here to see a lawyer and learn whether they belonged to him or the state of Arizona.

Deciding to test the story, Lieutenant Edward Kelly put Nelson to the lie detector examination. The officer said the device gave no indication of deception. He will ask the department of justice to send a representative with Nelson to Ruby to get the bonds.

PRIOR ASSAULTS ON THE COURT

President Roosevelt, undertaking to save the face that our distinguished Illinois senator was unable to save for him, made some references in his press conference to prior assaults on the court by Theodore Roosevelt and by Robert LaFollette. He thought their assaults had resulted in some progress in the direction in which he was aiming.

He might have made further observations. He might have observed that on the day that Theodore Roosevelt, as a "progressive" candidate for the presidency, assailed the courts and initiated the proposal of a "recall of judges" his star began to fall. He shifted, as Franklin shifted. Shifty brethren are these Roosevelts. Theodore shifted from recall of judges to recall of judicial decisions, when he heard the rumblings that followed his proposal to recall judges. Franklin shifted from his proposal to appoint six judges to one a year.

Senator LaFollette, who organized a "progressive" party of his own in 1924, had tucked away in his program a proposal that the congress should be empowered to override decisions of the supreme court of the United States. It was given nation-wide publicity by General Dawes, the Republican nominee for vice president. Calvin Coolidge was in the White House and did no campaigning. Dawes went out on a special train, and with only short platform addresses, he got down to "brass tacks" on just what was in store for the people of the country if they let themselves in for the LaFollette proposal to subordinate the supreme court, the bill of rights, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, and freedom of religion to a congress that might be controlled by momentary passions. Although the idea of a rubber stamp congress was far off then, General Dawes portrayed the possibilities of demagogic movements that would tear down our government.

The people said they didn't want it. Guess what Franklin D. Roosevelt said on the day before that election. He had been the vice presidential nominee of the Democratic party with Cox four years before and had been honored by being selected to make the nominating address for Governor Smith of New York in the 1924 convention, so he was interviewed as to the situation on the eve of the election. He said: "Last spring . . . the Republican party stood without a single issue on which to present their claim for reelection. Then LaFollette came along with his attack on the supreme court, his paternalistic panaceas, his socialistic doctrines, his affiliation with all the elements of discontent, and frightened the people. LaFollette was a fairy godfather to the Republican party."

Three times in the last twenty-five years, men who misjudged their personal popularity have staked it against the supreme court of the United States. Three times they have seen their star enter upon a downward course as a result of it.

AND WE'RE ALL FRIENDS

Two American women have complained to American diplomatic officials that they were victims of ungentlemanly treatment at the hands of Japanese soldiers as they passed a Japanese barricade at Peiping, China. No one at this time is becoming excited about the incident. The American government can not believe that the soldiers were instructed to humiliate American citizens. But the incident does show, parenthetically, which way the wind blows.

Ordinarily we might have expected the Chinese government to see that our nationals are protected from insult. But China is not able to protect its own nationals. The Japanese were barricaded in front of their legation in fear of a Chinese attack. They fear attack because Japanese troops in northern China are bombarding Chinese towns, killing civilians.

Yet the Chinese and Japanese governments, as this was written, were at peace with each other. The fighting goes on under the Japanese description of suppressing communists, chasing bandits and maintaining peace. The league of nations has succeeded in suppressing war by making a declaration of war unattractive. But the fighting goes on.

The United States and Japanese governments are at peace with each other. Yet the Japanese have been taught to hate Americans with fervor. The Jap soldiers, for the time, are "on the loose." They saw some Americans, and made the most of their opportunity to humiliate them.

No one is going to war over the incident, but the American government now has the opportunity to find where we stand in China, and it has the duty to insist upon an apology.

ILLINOIS MOTOR TAXES

Records of last year's motor vehicle registrations by states, prepared by the American Association of State Highway Officials, show that while the state ranks fifth in number of automobiles and trucks and sixth in gross receipts from fees and taxes on those conveyances, it stands only thirty-eighth in average motor license and gas tax receipts per vehicle.

With 1,659,750 cars and trucks registered, Illinois has fewer vehicles than New York, California, Pennsylvania and Ohio, in that order. Michigan is added to the states ahead of Illinois' total of $19,410,000 in gross receipts.

The average per vehicle from motor license receipts in Illinois is $11.69, and 25 states have larger averages than that. Vermont leads the list with $26.67

Answer to Question No. 1

1. This question is suggested by State Senator Coughlin's bill introduced into the New York legislature, prohibiting women drinking at bars. It is just like the no smokobeyed these signs until women began smoking. The way to keep women from drinking at bars is not to forbid them but to make them look as ridiculous as they really are.

Scientific Experimentation

People generally believe that scientific research involves intricate experimentation, employing very sensitive instruments and complex procedures.

In a measure this impression is correct. But some of the most fundamental experiments recorded in the history of science have been the essence of simplicity.

For example, the Italian naturalist, Francesco Redi (1626-94), concerned himself with the problem of the spontaneous generation of living things. In his century many believed that frogs arose spontaneously (were generated) from the muck of swamps, and mice and rats from refuse and garbage.

Redi exposed meat in jars. Some he left uncovered, while the others he covered with parchment and wire gauze. In due course maggots appeared within the uncovered meat, but maggots did not appear in the meat contained in the covered jars. Maggots, however, did develop on top of the covering wire gauze. Redi thus demonstrated that maggots are not spontaneously generated by decaying meat, but arise from eggs deposited therein by insects.

Equally as interesting was the experiment of Sanctiorius (San-torio Sutorius), a celebrated Paduan professor (1561-1636), who initiated the studies on metabolism. By means of an appropriately designed scale he recorded the alterations in his body weight caused by physical work, by the passage of time (without food intake), and the gain in weight following the eating of food.

John Hunter, the English surgeon (1728-1792), once tied off the major artery running to the growing antler of a deer. He expected that having been robbed of its blood supply the antler would cease growing. To his surprise, however, he found that the growth of the antler was unaffected. He suspected that perhaps the ligature he had placed about the artery had slipped. But, upon dissecting the region he found that his tie about the artery had remained in place, and that indeed blood circulation through the major artery had been stopped.
Branching arteries, however, had taken over the burden of supplying blood to the growing antler and had enlarged.

This experiment led Hunter to

RELIGION CALLS FOR ABOLITION OF SELFISHNESS

Strong Drive Started to Improve Spiritual Needs of U. S.

The development of a strong united religious front, plus a coordinated stewardship appeal to Americans of all classes to administer their lives and property for the common good, will be the two major emphases in the fall program of the national committee for religion and welfare recovery, as set forth in an announcement released yesterday from national headquarters in New York over the signature of the secretary, Charles V. Vickrey.

The committee will seek, through all appropriate methods and agencies, to invite and inspire the largest possible attendance at services of worship throughout the year. As an important step toward this, a special mobilization of the spiritual forces of America, has been called for Loyalty Days, October 2 and 3, immediately following the summer vacation period. The slogan, as in previous seasons, will be "Every citizen is cordially invited and every member confidently expected in a house of worship; every member present or accounted for."

Loyalty Days will be preceded by a preparatory period from September 27 to October 2. September 27 will be observed widely as Fellowship Monday, with conferences of clergy and laymen of all faiths concerning practical development of community service in fields of mutual interest, including Loyalty Days. The entire week of September 27 will be called Fellowship Week, and will be marked by special programs in national men's and women's clubs and fraternal organizations for presenting the religion and welfare recovery program with appeals for corporate church attendance or individual observance of Loyalty Days.

Stewardship Conference
The second point in the religion and welfare fall program will be a national stewardship conference to be held in New York shortly after Loyalty Days for the presentation and consideration of stewardship principles and methods of meeting the needs of our religious, educational and character-building institutions. Protestant, Jewish and Catholic religious and welfare leaders are being invited to convene and consider their common problems in meeting the needs of religious, social service and character-building institutions.

"Believing that 'faith without works is dead,' and that profession without practice is hypocrisy," says the committee's announcement, "we call upon all church members and as far as practicable all citizens to accept and apply Biblical principles of stewardship, with the slogan, 'Every citizen a steward of life and property for the welfare of mankind.'"

A survey committee, headed by Dr. Herman C. Weber, head of the every member canvass of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A., is now at work preparing charts and graphs on fundamental stewardship facts for presentation to the conference. The survey committee will also continue its studies and character-building institutions. Beginning September first, some of the results of its investigation will be released. This material will form the basis of a nation-wide educational program to show the public how America spends its national income, and to suggest the beneficial results of increased support to religious and character-building agencies.

What Americans Give
November and December will be used by the committee for intensive stewardship education through cooperative national effort. The main emphasis will be on that fact though the accepted Bible standard of giving is 10%, and though the United States government offers tax exemption on 15% of income devoted to welfare, education or religion, the average American citizen—according to U. S. Treasury department statistics—gives only a fraction more than 2% of his income for these purposes.

As a result of this education, increased giving to welfare organizations is hoped for during International Golden Rule Week, December 12 to 19.

To Close Year with Review
The closing days of December will be again devoted by the national committee to a culminating stewardship effort. The last Sunday of 1937, December 26, will be Stewardship Review Sunday. On Stewardship Adjustment Monday, December 27, the committee again this year urges an annual review of benevolent gifts of the year, with consideration of the possibility of increasing them to the full 15% authorized by the government for tax exemption. Stewardship Adjustment Monday is also suggested as a day for revision of bills to recognize the individual's indebtedness to church, school and social service institutions.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Rights — If You Can Get Them

By GUS W. DYER

Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University

The Wagner law has not been declared constitutional. The Supreme Court passes only on the constitutional principles involved in a specific case. A number of principles in the Wagner law were not considered in the cases brought before the Court. A number of things with reference to the rights of employers under this law are yet to be decided.

It is well to remember in these hectic days that an employer is an American citizen, and therefore has all the rights that belong to any other American citizen. Our constitution recognizes no class distinctions. No American citizen can claim any right that he does not concede to every other American citizen. A bargain is simply a contract. A contract is an agreement, and an agreement means harmony of opinions. Compulsion cannot have any place in a contract or bargain. The exercise of compulsion or force destroys the very foundation of a contract.

The right to bargain collectively simply means that the employees of any industry have a right to select certain representatives from their number to negotiate with the employer with reference to their wages and working conditions. Collective bargaining is simply a method of negotiating for a contract. It does not in any way change the essential nature of a contract.

The right to bargain collectively means that the representatives of the employees may submit to the employer any terms they please with reference to employment. But the employer is under no compulsion to accept the terms submitted. He is free to accept or reject anything submitted just as the representatives of the employees are free to accept or reject any offer made them by the employer.

A compact brought about by compelling one of the parties against his will and against his economic interest to submit to the compact is not a contract, but an act of robbery. It is taking from him property rights by force. This is not permitted under the Constitution.

The right of employees to choose their method of negotiating contracts does not and cannot deprive the employer of his constitutional rights of free speech and freedom of press. Certainly he has the right to discuss the nature of any organization or movement of his employees that may affect the success of the business in which they are engaged. To take the position that those who carry the responsibility of directing a business should be restrained from expressing their opinions on the effects of an activity or movement on the success of their business is not only antagonistic to every proper conception of American freedom, but is absurd in the extreme. Not only is it the employer's right, but his duty to warn his employees against any activity on their part that he believes will be hurtful to the business on which they are dependent.

The employer, of course, has no right to exercise force or compulsion to hold his employees in line with his policies. Neither have the employees any sort of right to exercise compulsion nor to make use of threats to hold the employer in line with their policy.

Compulsion does not, however, have any place in making contracts under our Constitution.

"Congress shall make no law . . . abridging the freedom of speech or the press."—The Constitution.

DISORDERS IN BELFAST MARK VISIT OF KING

Terrorists Give British Sovereigns Hostile Welcome Today

Belfast, Northern Ireland, July 28.—(AP)—Terrorists shattered the peace of Belfast and Ulster's Free State border with bombs, arson and gunfire today in hostile greeting to King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

Police blamed the outbreak on Irish Republicans.

While the King and Queen, on a coronation visit, were driving to the Belfast city hall through the crowded streets, a gas main explosion a half mile away boomed through a wide area of Belfast. It came as a climax to a night of terror in which customs houses were burned and a railroad bridge was dynamited.

Scores of Belfast explosion broke windows and damaged a customs building. A child playing nearby was injured, but because many workmen were elsewhere to see the King and Queen there were no other casualties in the usually crowded area.

Probably Accidental

After the British sovereigns were received at the city hall, attended a state luncheon and a garden party, and saw a parade of youth organizations, investigators decided the gas explosion probably was accidental.

Other explosions and disorders, including the burning of 28 customs houses between Carlisle and Dundoran, were attributed to a "big plot," rumors of which had reached the ears of authorities last week.

Crowds lining the streets cheered the King and Queen on their drive through the city. The throngs started gathering last night and hundreds ate picnic breakfasts in the streets to keep their places.

At the city hall the king replied to an address of welcome by saying:

"We cannot thank you enough for the kindness and warmth of the welcome you have given us. We are delighted to find ourselves among you once again to renew our increasing prosperity and happiness."

The King and Queen heard the explosion, but no change was made in the coronation program. An estimated million persons jammed the streets to see the sovereigns on their nine hour visit.

The outrages were believed designed to frighten crowds who came from the Free State to see the king and not as attacks upon the monarch himself.

Brain Twizzlers By PROF. J. D. FLINT

Today we have an old legend about Achilles and the turtle. You may have heard it before but did you reason it out?

The story deals with the classic race between fleet-footed Achilles, the world sprint champion of his time, and Drag, the sticky-footed turtle. A race was proposed to see how long it would take Achilles to pass the turtle if the turtle had a hundred yard head start. Achilles could travel ten times as fast as Drag so while Drag was traveling ten yards Achilles travelled one hundred yards. Then while Achilles travelled the next ten yards Drag covered one yard. The next step follows that Achilles travelled one yard and Drag travelled one-tenth of a yard, still a little ahead of Achilles. Well, it looks like with these proceedings Achilles could never actually catch the turtle although the distance between them would soon be down to a very fine point. Where is the mistake in the reasoning?

Chicagoans Will Try to Find LaSalle's Sunken Boat

Chicago, July 28.—(AP)—Robert Cavalier Sieur de LaSalle's Griffin—the "Flying Dutchman" of the Great Lakes—may sail again, if the expedition planned today by a Chicago yachtsman and explorer meets with success.

Eugene F. McDonald's Diesel yacht was being loaded with diving and salvage equipment for a cruise to the western end of Manitoulin island in Lake Huron where the pioneer explorer's ship—reputed to be the first to ply the lakes—was believed to have sunk in 1679.

LaSalle and Henri de Tonti built the Griffin at the head of Lake Erie in May, 1679. They sailed to what is now Green Bay, Wis., where the ship was laden with 12,000 furs. LaSalle sent them to friends who helped finance his explorations.

But the Griffin never reached port. Lake authorities—and McDonald—who said he had studied all available evidence—believe she foundered off Manitoulin.

Old sailors say the Griffin sails each year when the lotus blooms. They say she is recognized by the eagle-headed, lion-bodied Griffin figurehead protruding from her prow.

McDonald said he planned to sail Friday and anchor off the island Monday. There he plans to meet Grant Turner of Little Current, Ontario, Can., since the Canadian government granted him permission for the search provided a Canadian government official accompanied him.

If the Griffin is found, McDonald said, efforts will be made to reconstruct the old ship so that she can sail along the Chicago waterfront during the city's jubilee Carnival of the Lakes.

Far Ahead

Great Britain's Navy Far Superior to Uncle Sam's

Washington, July 28—(AP)—A navy department tabulation of the world's comparative sea-power disclosed today that Great Britain was far ahead of other nations.

The British navy now consists of 285 warships of 1,216,389 tons, the figure showed. It has under construction 96 more ships of 541,000 tons.

The United States navy is second. It has 325 ships of 1,083,330 tons (including 212 wartime vessels of 214,100 tons, considered over-age). Eighty-seven ships of 335,565 tons are under construction.

Germany ranks third in ships being built and virtually will double its present navy soon.

After Great Britain and the United States, the other sea powers rank:

Japan, 200 ships of 745,604 tons, and 23 ships of 79,272 tons under construction; France, 162 ships of 469,346 tons, and 42 of 174,143 tons under construction; Italy, 206 ships of 396,683 tons, and 67 of 147,500 tons under construction, and Germany, 77 ships of 147,632 tons and 38 of 262,482 tons under construction.

Navy officials said the figures for Japan, Italy and Germany might not be complete.

Auto Accident

Deaths Showing Small Decrease

Chicago, July 28—(AP)—Automobile accident deaths in the United States last month showed a three per cent drop today, despite an estimated 2,000,000,000 mile increase in motor travel.

The national safety council reported June traffic fatalities numbered 2,860, a drop of 90 from last year's June total.

Accident deaths for 1937 up to June 30 totaled 17,200, against 15,160 during the first six months last year.

The nation's cities as a whole reduced traffic deaths nine per cent in June, but their record for the first six months was 11 per cent higher than in 1936. Eighty-three cities of 10,000 or more population had no fatalities up to July 1.

Of 13 cities having more than 500,000 population, only three—Chicago, Philadelphia and Cleveland—showed increases in traffic fatalities during June.

Wholesale Food Merchants Defy Union Strikers

Buffalo, N. Y., July 28—(AP)—Wholesale food merchants opened their warehouses today in defiance of 1,000 striking delivery truck drivers, but union men seeking a closed shop and increased wages tightened picket lines and stopped food movement before dwindling stocks in retail stores could be replenished.

Doubled police details guarded two big food terminals where most of the 44 strike-bound dealers have warehouses.

Strikers intensified efforts to stop food deliveries completely by approaching non-cooperating truckers and demanding they turn back. Strike "committees" warned retailers who came for staples that picket lines would be thrown around their shops.

No disorders were reported.

The union leaders, American Federation of Labor affiliates, went into another conference with the wholesalers and state mediators for new discussions of wage and hour demands.

Thomas Longbotham, member of the food dealers' group, said supplies were available at the terminals "for retailers who can come after them."

"MINOR" ERROR

Omaha, Neb., July 28—(AP)—An Omaha street commissioner saw an opportunity to transform a dumpyard into a park.

He interested WPA, the city, and the neighborhood in the project and more than 20,000 cubic yards of dirt were removed.

Then another city commissioner discovered the park site belonged to an estate and was not property after all.

Americans In—

artillery and aviation proved the deciding factors in a bitter battle in which the Chinese yielded two undisclosed key positions north of Peiping.

Chinese reports that their 29th army took Fengtai, Japanese military base south of Peiping, and recaptured Langfang were denied by the Japanese.

They admitted, however, that a Chinese attempt to surround Langfang, which commands the Japanese military railroad line midway between here and Peiping, necessitated hasty reinforcements there.

Japanese headquarters declared the front line was "without any modifications" and the Peiping area is "comparatively quiet." It reported only occasional Chinese artillery bombardments of Japanese positions.

Chinese Claims

The Chinese, nevertheless, made late claims to the capture of seven Japanese air bombers and the Chaochiang military airdrome, south of Peiping.

They declared also that capture of Tungkow, east of Peiping and north of Tientsin, was imminent. Tungkow is the capital of the East Hopeh autonomous regime, a Japanese "puppet state". Chinese officers asserted that the Tungkow garrison had rebelled against the Japanese.

Against Chinese reports that an important railroad bridge was blown up at Yangtsun, on the Tientsin-Peiping line, Japanese said they were occupying the station.

(Reliable foreign sources estimated that the Chinese quickly could call about 420,000 troops to the Peiping front from the central government army and armies in and bordering on the Hopeh-Chahar provinces. The central government, they said, also possesses 300 first class fighting planes at scattered bases throughout China.

The Japanese were said to have concentrated 18,000 or 20,000 soldiers in the Tientsin-Peiping area with sufficient reserve guard strength to throw all their effectiveness to battle at once. About 90 Japanese planes have been collected here.

The Japanese active army last year numbered 242,600 troops and 15,000 officers.

Establish Air Corps

Foreshadowing swift extension of Japan's aerial warfare, additional Japanese aviation officers flew here today from Japan to organize a general air corps headquarters.

The Nanyang barracks, Japanese military communications declared, were demolished by a combined mass aerial bombardment and all-day artillery pounding which took a heavy toll of Chinese lives.

Reinforcements of Japanese troops, equipment and supplies, meanwhile, poured steadily into Tientsin by rail from the east and south.

Movements to the front from the mobilizing point here, however, were seriously impeded by the clashes along the railroad and by a drenching rain which made all but the main highway impassable.

Japan's Declaration

Tokyo, July 28—(AP)—Japan formally declared its intention today to resort to arms to punish China for repeated acts of provocation against Japan.

Open war between Japan and China seemed imminent. Indeed it already may be in progress, started by a Japanese attack in force to drive Chinese troops out of North China.

The Chinese government at Nanking, Japanese dispatches declared, is believed ready to mobilize all China against Japan as a result of the fighting around Peiping.

Reports of the first successes of the Japanese army's campaign reached here during a lengthy debate in parliament on a $30,000,000 war appropriation.

Rising dramatically from the seat where he had been listening, Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye interrupted the session with a terse declaration that the Japanese government had been forced to make up its mind to resort to arms to punish China.

War Finances Pass

The widely cheering members of the house of representatives immediately pushed through the war finance measure to unanimous passage.

At a hastily summoned cabinet meeting the minister of war, General Gen Sugiyama, told his colleagues that the Japanese army command in North China had been compelled to order out all its forces against the Chinese 29th army in the Peiping area because it had refused a Japanese ultimatum to throw down its arms.

At last midnight the Japanese commander in North China at Tientsin informed Gen. Sung Chieh-Yuan, governor of Hopeh and Chahar provinces and commander of the 29th Chinese army, he was taking free action against China "because of the challenging and deceptive attitude of the Chinese forces."

The Tientsin announcement was considered in some quarters here as a virtual declaration of war against China. At dawn the attack commenced.

China Accepts Issue

Nanking, July 28—(AP)—A high official of the Chinese foreign office declared today all efforts to maintain peace with Japan had been exhausted and "we accept the issue of battle."

The official's statement came after the foreign office had announced Chinese troops south of Peiping had defeated the Japanese army at two strategic points and captured Fengtai, Japanese field headquarters, five miles west of Peiping.

The foreign office spokesman said there was no question of a formal declaration of war as "illegal warfare is impossible since the Kellogg pact."

"But actual hostilities will be on a major scale," he added, "and encompass all of China. It will not be the case of some Chinese soldiers in north China fighting the Japanese but instead will be all of China against Japan."

Further Trouble

He said the Nanking government expected "trouble to come to central and South China."

"There is no longer any hesitation in China's foreign policy. Our efforts toward peace have been exhausted. With reluctance we accept the issue to battle and once fighting begins we never surrender."

"Our previous policy of non-resistance has gained us only the empty support of world powers but has enabled Japan to slice off portions of our territory and entrench her troops in military positions from which it is difficult to dislodge them."

"Our internal reconstruction efforts have been handicapped and overshadowed by military necessities. The former must await the outcome of our anti-Japanese defense measures."

F. D. R. WATCHES SINO-JAPANESE DEVELOPMENTS

War Declaration Not Necessary for Arms Shipments Embargo

Washington, July 28—(AP)—White House officials said today President Roosevelt was keeping constant touch with developments in the Sino-Japanese crisis to determine, among other things, whether the neutrality act should be invoked.

Stephen T. Early, press secretary, told newsmen the president was in telephonic communication last night and this morning with the state department and would continue to watch every development in the critical situation.

He recalled that under the law the president does not have to wait for a formal declaration of war to put into effect the neutrality provisions prohibiting arms, ammunition and credits to belligerents.

The president, it was added, must decide for himself when a state of war exists and then he is obligated to invoke the law against belligerents on both sides.

Primary Concern

In addition to watching the situation with respect to possible neutrality action, Early said safety of American nationals at Peiping, scene of the principal fighting, was of primary concern.

The far eastern crisis was said to make uncertain a week-end cruise planned by the president to begin Friday.

It also has presented a problem for White House officials in arranging radio facilities for a Sunday broadcast by the president in conjunction with General Pershing, who is in France, in connection with the dedication of a battle monument at Montfaucon, where approximately 27,000 American soldiers are buried.

If the president remains here he will speak from the White House. Should he make a trip on the river and Chesapeake Bay he probably will speak from the yacht Potomac at Annapolis.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. 75,000 TO SEE ALL-STAR GRID TILT

Five Collegians Are All-American Team Members, 1936

75,000 — IN 1936 — ETAO... Chicago, July 28—(AP)—More than 5,000,000 gridiron fans around 75,000 of whom will be here as witnesses, have picked the array of 1936 college aces they expect to help whip the professional champion Green Bay Packers in the fourth annual All Star game at Soldier field Sept. 1.

Since the big spectacle was introduced by the Chicago Tribune in 1934, no team of collegians has been able to conquer the professional standard bearer, the Chicago Bears the first two years, and Detroit's Lions a year ago, but the fans—3,036,466 of them—have called on 65 stars, five of them members of the All-America, to prove fandom can't be wrong four times in a row.

The All-America stars who will be in the starting lineup in the battle under the floodlights, are big Sam Francis, Nebraska fullback and the leading vote-getter with 1,104,372; Gaynell Thinsley, Louisiana State end; tackles Ed Wideth of Minnesota, and Averell Daniell of Pittsburgh, and Max Starcevic, Washington guard. Three others of the All-America, Larry Kelley, Yale's brilliant end; center Mike Basrak of Duquesne, and Ray Buvird, prize halfback from Marquette, will be on the squad.

Other Starters
The other starting end will be Merle Wendt of Ohio State, Steve Reid, captain of Northwestern's Big Ten champions, will start at the other guard, Bud Svendsen of Minnesota, was selected to start at center, completing the line. The quarterback at kickoff time will be Vernon Huffman of Indiana, with Bobby La Rue of Pittsburgh, and Purdue's John Drake at the halfback positions.

Without having been able to achieve a victory in the three previous battles, all of which attracted crowds of more than 60,000, the collegians have two ties in the account book. The 1934 aggregation held the Bears to a scoreless stand-off, and last year's boys gained a 7 to 7 tie with the Lions. The Bears gave the pros the edge in 1935, however, by winning, 5 to 0.

The rest of the squad:
Ends—Bill O'Neill, Notre Dame, Ray Antil, Minnesota; Leo Deutsch, St. Benedict; Charles Galatka, Mississippi State; Woodrow Stromberg, Army; Matt Patanelli, Michigan; Ken Nelson, Illinois; Dwight Hafeli, Washington University (St. Louis), and John Zitzko, Northwestern.

Guards—Bill Clafoford, Pittsburgh; Cliff Kuhn, Illinois; John Lautar, Notre Dame; Dick Bassi, Santa Clara; Gordon Dahlgren, Michigan State; Sam Galovich, Knox, and Joe Sala, St. Viator.

Centers—George Bell, Purdue; John Wistrak, Washington, and Gil Kuhn, Southern California.

Some Prison Team to Get a New Infielder

Springfield, Ill., July 28—(AP)—Police awaited today a report from the national identification bureau at Washington on the fingerprints of two men held under $10,000 bail each on an alleged extortion attempt against Sim Fernandes, Springfield investment broker.

Assistant State's Attorney Frank Pfeiffer said that George Arthurs of Fayetteville, Arkansas, one of the pair caught in a police trap Monday night, had asserted he originated the plot because "I just got in the wrong card game at St. Louis, lost all my money and needed some cash."

Pfeiffer said he exonerated his companion, Virgil Stevens of Texas, Ark.

"I guess I'll make a good second baseman for the ball team at either Chester or Joliet. You know I played professional ball for three years and then played two years on the Huntsville, Texas prison team," Stevens said.

Lou Koupal, Browns, and Jimmy Fox, Red Sox—Former scattered nine hits to check Sox, 8-5; latter had perfect day at bat with four-bagger and pair of doubles.

Playground Tennis Tourney Begins Next Week, Open For All Boys and Girls Below 17

Second to Be Held in Dixon Within Two Months

A playground tennis tournament will commence on the Dixon high school courts, Tuesday morning, August 2, Miss Helen Hiland, playground director announced today.

The tournament will be the second tennis meet held in Dixon this summer, the first being the Telegraph's all-city singles championships held the latter part of June and the first part of July, which was won by George Covert.

The tournament about to commence is open to both boys and girls under seventeen. Singles and doubles will be arranged on Thursday. Those entering must sign this Thursday between 9 A. M. and 10 A. M. at the courts.

Enrollment Grows
This week the enrollment on the playgrounds has increased and many more are participating in activities. On the northside Monday, Mac McNamara's team was defeated by Bill Haines' team. Hard ball has become most popular. One day soon when weather permits, the city of Dixon will block off a street and turn the water hydrants on for playground children to participate in a water splash and fight.

This activity at different times will be held on the northside and southside. The days will be announced at the playground. Another playground picnic will be held Friday at Lowell park in which leaving time will be 9:30 A. M. at the E. C. Smith and North Central schools. Basketball on the North Central and South Central schools. Basketball on the North Central and South Central gymnasium floor is being played frequently each afternoon and is proving popular with the boys.

A ball and jack tournament will be held on the southside this week.

MEDWICK IS HERO OF CARD GIANT SETTO

Uncorks Home Run at Psychological Moment

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

Outside of a fist-swinging, bat-waving free-for-all in which he can take remote-control apart by heaving a well-intentioned but poorly aimed (or vice versa) pop bottle, there's nothing the baseball fan loves more than the good old Merdwick finish.

There was enough fruit for conversation tied up in yesterday's big league show to bore half the country's wives to distraction as they waited for friend husband to calm down and eat his dinner. Four of the eight games weren't decided until the last half of the final inning.

Gets 21st Homer

Joseph Michael, the pride of Carter, N. J., who has been leading the National league batting parade for so long it's a habit, waited for the truly psychological moment to uncork his 21st homer of the year.

The Giants had rallied to tie the score at 8-all after the Gas House Gang's eight-run blast had knocked Carl Hubbell loose from his props. Third Giant pitcher Al Smith had retired the first two men to face him in the ninth. Then up came Ducky Medwick and plastered one against the left field bleacher rail to win the ball game, 9-8, and drop the Giants three games behind the Cubs, who won a 5-2 decision over the Dodgers, without any particular fireworks.

Scarsella's four-master, which scored Ival Goodman ahead of him, saved the day and his 10th victory for Lefty Lee Grissom. The Red's rookie had given up only one hit for eight innings, then was clipped for three and two runs in the ninth. Scarsella's blow made the final score 3-2 for Cincinnati.

Eleventh Inning Punch

Rolie, the old Dartmouth alumnus, delayed his k. o. punch until the 11th. The Tigers, having put over a run on Red Ruffing in their half of that frame, were leading by 5-4. But Rolfe's circuit clutch, with Frank Crosetti scoring ahead of him, made it 6-5 in favor of the Yanks and stretched their American league lead to six games.

Less showy, but equally effective, were Billy Myer's ninth-inning single that drove in the run that gave Washington a 6-5 victory over the White Sox, and Philadelphia Bill Werber's eighth-inning double that brought in two runs and halted the Indians, 4-3.

In the other games, Red Lucas pinned a six-hitter on the Phillies to give Pittsburgh a 4-1 triumph, and the Browns' 15-hit attack topped the Red Sox, 8-5, and gave Manager Jim Bottomley his first triumph on the road.

Sloop Unreported 72 Hours Finishes Annual Yacht Race

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 28—(AP)—The sloop Victory, unreported for 72 hours, sailed in here today to finish the Chicago-to-Mackinac race.

The victory, one of the few craft to complete the flight through gale and fog over Lake Michigan, arrived about 5:40 a. m. (CST). She appeared none the worse for wear.

Arrival of the Victory, a 40-year-old sailboat captained by its owner, Carl Norberg of Chicago, left all the 42 boats in the race accounted for—most of them in ports down the lake as storm refugees.

GREAT PHEASANT DOGS

By Ozark Ripley
For good reasons pheasants have the reputation of being trick customers for most young or old bird dogs, which are started on them improperly. Some hunters think that no bird dog can be taught to handle them properly, to point like they do quails and prairie chickens.

Usually when the average dog spots a ringneck, the bird runs quickly, as the animal begins to draw on it. This is one reason why numbers of ringneck hunters seek this game with springers, beagles or most any kind of dog which will follow their scent and possibly flush them within range of the guns.

Most dogs with fair speed and range are ruined in their training by their owners forcing them to point before they have learned the habits of the tricky pheasants. Their natural speed is cut believing that too much speed and range is the cause of birds being flushed or made to run when the pointer or setter starts to freeze on point.

Strangely the fast dog properly developed in its youth and until shooting days will handle pheasants to point far better than slow, close ranging dogs. We do not see

New York, July 28—(AP)—If they keep hustling, those smooth-stepping Boston Bees may grab themselves a first division berth... Like old King Levinsky, Alice Marble, the American tennis champion, says the London climate "got her"... Levinsky couldn't make up his mind between the weather or the tea—or was it the beer?... About the only guys you'll recognize on the 1938 Cardinals will be Joe Medwick and maybe Frankie Frisch... Archie San Romani, the Kansas miler, is off on the Queen Mary today to campaign Europe... Sonja Henie, the skate queen, went vacationing to Norway aboard the same boat.

The Giants have asked for waivers on George (Kiddo) Davis and Pitcher Tom Baker... Terry had to do it to make room for Ben Cantwell, recalled from Jersey City, and Blondy Ryan... Davis is expected to wind up in Jersey City... But his stay in exile will be short... The Giants are high on him and he probably will be given the management of the next important farm they buy... Don't know anybody who has come out in the last two years like Joe Louis... He used to live in a shell, but now he'll yell at you plumb across the room on the slightest provocation. There's a boy who's been smartly handled.

Over at Seabright, the California tennis delegation tells you the main reason Helen Wills Moody is after a divorce is because her husband sailed a boat too much... Tom Yawkey, who has decided to build a ball club the hard way—rebuild his Red Sox with farm hands—may begin collecting real dividends next year... Mel Ott's batting slump is so serious, Bill Terry is considering benching the youngest 16-year man in the majors... Mayor Henry Wheeler of ment will gladly answer any questions you may have to ask about hunting, fishing, trap-shooting and other outdoor activities. Send your questions, together with a stamped, addressed envelope for reply, to North American Sportsman's Bureau, Wrigley Bldg., Chicago.

CHAPTER XII

TUESDAY: "Morning, girls."

Cal said when he came into the kitchen this morning, and I knew by the deliberate way he started to shove tobacco into his mouth, that he had news for us.

"Guess everyone will be happy now around the lake . . . the Township Committee announces that Serene Shores will be closed until the fall."

"Soth Bradshaw found out that there was some crooked work over that deal, and he's got his property back; but he's giving it to the Township for the benefit of all his old neighbors and friends."

"Too bad I won't live here after I'm married," said Tess. "I sure would enjoy sitting on the porch looking at the lake. Any other news, Cal?"

Clearing his throat, he said,
"Had lots of excitement last night."

"Yes, you went to the movies, didn't you, Cal?" Tess said.

"I did, but it was when I was going home that I was almost scared out of a year's growth."

"Gosh, Cal, what happened?"
Tess demanded.

"WELL, I was coming past Serene Shores . . . saw a couple of cars in front of the clubhouse . . . it was late for I stopped to see some folk after the show and we got talking . . . saw the clubhouse door open and that young fellow—his picture was in one of the magazines."

"You mean that famous designer, Roger Brough?" Tess said.
"Yes, that's the fellow I mean.
Well, he came out with another man—a heavy-set sort fellow, and that pretty girl folks say he's going to marry. He opened the door of a swell limousine, and helped the girl in . . . she didn't want to go though and hung around his neck, but the heavy-set fellow said, 'Cut that out,' then, turning to Roger, whispered something to him."

"After they got in the car, the girl looks out and says, 'Join us in Boston, Roger . . . I've got the tickets.' But the man speaks real angry-like, 'You can't do that . . .
you've got to stall them off . . .
I told you about, Miss Joy?'

"Well, I finished, 'that clears up a gang of counterfeiters and I guess I had something to do with their capture . . . remember that bill I told you about, Miss Joy?'

We got a poor enough start as it is."

"Gee, Cal, that sounds like a movie thriller . . . what was it all about, do you think?"

"Couldn't say, I'm sure . . .
maybe there'll be something in the papers about it."

I wondered, but had to hustle and arrange the flowers, then I decided if I was ever going to do anything about Jigger the sooner the better . . . started out towards the haunted house . . .
passing the cabin, I noticed that Tad and Peter were in their lookout tower . . . Peter seemed terribly excited.

"Look out," I called "or you'll fall."

"Oh, Joy, want to see something?" he cried, craning his neck in the direction of the haunted house.

"Haven't time," I answered, as I hurried along.

A moment later Peter was at my side. "Are you going to let me come with you . . . please?"

"No, no, Peter . . . you know you promised—"

"Suddenly echoes of rifle fire shattered the stillness of the woods."

"That's just what I thought. . .
I was sure it was Eb Tuttle and some other men who were at the haunted house . . . Tad and I saw them go . . . come on back to the cabin . . . you can see everything from the tower . . ."

I KNEW it wouldn't stand for my weight; but I knew that when the sound of firing reached Cal's ears he would be along instantly.
I might as well go back. It was Tad who got into the tower first . . .
"They've got 'em," he cried excitedly . . . "the policemen have their guns on them . . .
one man's on the ground . . .
they're bringing stuff out of the house . . . oh, there's a huge dog like a wolf . . . he's leaped on one of the policemen . . . now he's slinking away . . . standing beside Jigger."

Not knowing what would happen next, I took the boys back with me to the teahouse. Cal was down in the thick of things for Eb had tipped him off about the raid. It wasn't till nearly lunch time that Cal appeared with full details . . . "the police had arrested all the men, though Jigger had been shot and wounded in the attack."

"Well," he finished, "that clears up a gang of counterfeiters and I guess I had something to do with their capture . . . remember that
bill I told you about, Miss Joy?'

look at it . . . showed it to Eb turned it over to Mr. West at the

"You did, Cal?"

"Sure and it wasn't worth a nickel, but I got even with that fellow Jigger for paying me with counterfeit money, for that gave Eb the tip he needed . . . Eb figures maybe that artist fellow was the one who made the plates for them, and the packages at the Oh, things were beginning to grow plainer to me with every step I took . . . but in spite of everything I felt the least I could do was warn Roger.

The place looked deserted . . .
I pounded furiously on the door;
at last it was opened . . . Roger stood before me. "Get out of here," I cried, "quick before the police and Secret Service men get here . . . they'll be along any minute . . . come . . . I'll show you a short cut through the woods." I put my hand on his arm.

Roger smiled. "No fear of that," he said, as he drew me into the hall.

I couldn't understand at first what he was trying to tell me . . .
then the light dawned . . . oh, I should have known that there was never anything between him and Angela . . . nor had he ever had anything to do with Rocco's shady deals . . . it was just a coincidence that he came to that resort. He wanted to get away from New York to think things out . . . he never knew till Angela arrived that Rocco, hiding behind one of his henchmen, was the real owner of the resort.

Wednesday: I'm going to quit keeping a diary . . . too many wonderful things are happening
. . . all misunderstandings have been cleared away between Roger and me . . . I'm wearing his ring again . . . we'll have a fall wedding. Peter's thrilled at the thought of going to boarding school . . . "I always told you, Sis, Roger's a grand guy!" Such language . . . still he means all right . . . that's exactly how I feel about the man I love!

DIXONITES HEAR BOY PREACHER LAST EVENING

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith and Rev. and Mrs. William E. Thompson were at Bloomington last night to hear the boy preacher, seven years of age, Charles Jaynes. They heard him speak on the subject of "Heaven," and tell of being ordained to the ministry July 22, at the Trinity Tabernacle of Peoria.

Rev. Thompson describes the service as follows: The tent where the meetings were held would perhaps seat 250 to 300 people, but there were perhaps 500 in attendance, as many were standing. The people began to gather soon after seven o'clock and when the time came for starting the service the tent was filled and many standing around the tent, young and old, and judging from appearance, rich and poor. One noticeable thing was the large number of children present at the service. There was nothing unusual about the service except the boy preacher. They sang old hymns and took up an offering for the boy. He spoke on the subject of "Heaven" and all that he said was committed to memory, and he quoted a good deal of scripture. Mr. Thompson stated that he believes many families have boys who could do what this lad is doing if they desired to commercialize his ability, over-tax his mind, and make an old man out of him.

Nebraska farmers in four years received almost 90 million dollars from the AAA and soil conservation program.

IOWA DECLARES HER TALL CORN TITLE REMAINS

Governor Boasts of 16 Foot Stalks In Annual Derby

Des Moines, Ia., July 28—(AP)—Advance skirmishes on the "corn front" in four states indicated today that the governor of Iowa will have something to say to the governor of Wisconsin here Saturday morning.

The meeting promises to decide—or at least add fuel to the controversy over which midwestern state grows the tallest corn.

Governor Philip LaFollette of Wisconsin, who began the corn derby with a boast about a nine-foot stalk, will arrive here Saturday to address a Progressive meeting.

Iowa has reaped a 16-foot six-inch sky scraper to represent Governor Nels G. Kraschel, who has asked the Wisconsin governor to meet him at the Iowa state house Saturday morning with the "biggest and best" corn stalk Wisconsin grows.

Meanwhile, from Illinois and Indiana, who will be represented at the derby only by proxy, if it came reports of a sudden interest in tall corn.

Governor Henry Horner declared early this week that he had a corn stalk in his own back yard at Springfield, Ill., that measured 12 feet. Illinois agricultural officials told him that the state had plenty of stalks "15 feet tall."

Iowa agriculturists were inclined to regard as "sour grapes" the statement of an Indiana entomologist that "tall corn doesn't mean a thing—it's the ears that count."

The statement was made yesterday by Frank N. Wallace, Indiana state entomologist, who declared that for 25 years Indiana has won the majority of corn ear prizes at the International hay and grain exposition at Chicago.

"Let the rest of them raise fodder," Wallace declared.
